

PEGLEG MINE REDISCOVERED

Prospectors Tell of Find and Rush Back Af- ter Riches.

San Bernardino, Jan. 5. — For eighty years a myth of the silent desert, a golden mirage that has lured hundreds to lonely death and the waterless wastes, the "Pegleg" mine, more famed in the folklore of the frontier than the treasures of Captain Kidd or the sunken galleons of the Spanish main, has been discovered.

That is the story that was told in a few hurried sentences today by Samuel Ferguson and John Blodgett, prospectors, who, only pausing long enough to purchase provisions, plunged back into the trackless dunes on the return trip to the mysterious three black buttes from whose precipitous sides "Pegleg" Smith, scout, guide and Indian fighter, picked the first handful of golden nuggets in 1830.

Ferguson and Blodgett exhibited samples of the typical "Pegleg" dust. This is black and shot-shaped gold and there is not an old timer on the frontier but could tell it at a glance. The prospectors declare they have made the find and that they can return to it. It is in the very heart of the desert, they declare, about eighty-five miles east of Warner's ranch. They have marked their route, they say, and can find their way back without difficulty. Much excitement has followed the announcement.

But others have found the "Pegleg." Time and again its shot-like gold has been brought to the bars and hotels of the old frontier by haggard but joyful desert men whose months of search among the burning sands and alkaline sinks had been rewarded. But not one of these has ever been able to return. So well established is this fact that among the fast disappearing race of border men the "Pegleg" has taken on a supernatural aspect. Scientists have said that the configuration of the landscape is changing constantly owing to winds and the shifting of the sand and that to this is due the failure of the successful ones to retrace their way to its fabulous riches. But the description of all who have dipped their fingers into the "Pegleg's" wealth tally exactly with that as given by Ferguson and Blodgett.

Will these men be able to return and profit by their discovery? is being asked, and the old timers are shaking their heads in silent dissent.

No other thing in the great Southwest is so mysteriously romantic as the "Pegleg" mine. Crossing the desert from Yuma to San Bernardino in 1830, "Pegleg" Smith, who was one of the first guides and trappers to locate the great Santa Fe trail, found himself lost in the trackless wild. Three black buttes rose on the horizon and to these he directed the steps of his tired horse.

Halting at its base, he dismounted and climbed the slope of one, seeking to gain a view of the country. Topping up the slope, Smith was attracted by the peculiar appearance of the shotlike rock which covered the surface of the hill and gathered up a handful of the stones. They were heavier than lead. Laying one against his wooden leg, he lacked the pellet in half with his knife and it was gold.

Smith was far too experienced a frontiersman to give way to excitement. He went on to the top, ascertained the lay of the land and returned to his horses. He filled his saddle bags with the black, incrustated gold and went on, finally arriving at San Bernardino. He exhibited the gold and told his story. Hundreds rushed into the desert to locate claims. Scores died and all failed. For years it was believed that Smith could have successfully have led the various parties that he took out, had he so wished. Then the feeling grew that he had lied.

But one day a soldier who had deserted from Fort Yuma and had been lost in the desert, reached San Bernardino. He was crazy from exposure and the tortures of heat and thirst, but his pockets bulged with "Pegleg" gold. In lucid moments he told of the three black buttes, but he did not know the way back. There was another rush into the desert and another harvest of death and failure.

A squaw took "Pegleg" gold to Phoenix and described the three buttes and her awful suffering while lost in the silent dunes.

A cowboy who had followed cattle that strayed from the range came back about after he had been given up for dead. He had "Pegleg" nuggets in his handkerchief, but he did not know the way.

And thus it has gone on. Just as the "Pegleg" seemed about to fade and be forgotten there always has come authentic revival in the form of shotgun nuggets, and someone who has seen the three black buttes but who is fated never to visit them again.

And so when Ferguson and Blodgett plunged back again into the desert, after eating in their "dust" and replenishing their "outfit," the old timers who have witnessed the dawnings and wanings of many "Pegleg" discoveries shook their heads sadly and merely commented, "Wait and see."

An Orkney Prayer.

The brevity of the Orkney summer precluding the raising of barley, the elders had requested the minister to pray for good harvest weather. He complied as follows: "Lord, give us braw weather and a wee bit saugh of a breeze that will drive the straw and will nae harm the heads, but if ye blaw us sic a blitherin' ravin', tearin' blast as we have been ha'in' ye'll play the vera mischief wi' the ails and fairly spoil a'!"

Suggestive Questions on the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Dr. Linscott for the International Newspaper Bible Study Club.

JANUARY 10, 1909.

The Descent of the Holy Spirit. Acts ii:1-21.

Golden Text: I will pray the Father and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you forever; even the Spirit of the truth. John xiv:16-17.

Recall, and report, some of the thoughts developed in last Sunday's lesson.

Verse 1: What was the day of Pentecost? (See Ex. xxiv:22; Lev. xxiii:15; Num. xxviii:26; Deut. xvi:10.)

Is a barren, or unprofitable meeting possible when Christians meet "with one accord?"

Would the Holy Spirit have come on this occasion if there had been divisions among them?

Can the Holy Spirit come to any church in which there are divisions, or into any heart that is not in "one accord" or love with everybody?

Verse 2: Was the sound the Holy Spirit, or was it a great wind, which was one of the attendant circumstances of his coming?

Is there any other scriptural account of God coming, with any similar outward manifestations? (See 1 Kings xix:11-12.)

Verse 3: These eleven tongues were clearly no part of the Holy Spirit; do you think it possible that they were made by forked lightning, or some similar phenomena?

What did the sound of the wind, and the flashes of fire in the shape of tongues typify?

In these days of millions of good books and papers, is the human voice still the most potent means of testifying for Jesus?

Was it the Holy Spirit, or the tongues that "sat upon each of them?"

Verse 4: What is your conception of the meaning of the statements, that "they were all filled with the Holy Spirit," and how many spoke with tongues?

Granted that it is the privilege, and duty of all men to be filled with the Holy Spirit; does the same hold good with the gift of tongues, and similar spiritual phenomena? (See 1 Cor. xii:8-10; xiv:4, 5, 13, 14.)

Verse 5: Are there still "devout men in every nation under heaven," even where the historic Christ has not been heard of?

Verses 6-12: Do devout men filled with God, still make a stir in every community?

What do Christians most need today, in order to "amaze" and convert the world?

All must admit that an educated ministry is desirable, but which will make the most converts, a man with fair intelligence and a common school education, filled with the Holy Spirit; or an university graduate lacking such experience?

Verse 13: What resemblance is there between a man filled with the Holy Spirit and one under the influence of strong drink?

Verses 14-21: What is the prophecy by the prophet Joel here quoted him? (See Joel ii:28-29.)

Should the emphasis for Christian service be put upon the natural, or the supernatural equipment?

Is the Holy Spirit meant for everybody, even the man on the street, and how may he be received? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

COVINA WINS FROM MONTE

Fairly and Coolman Prove Strong Pair in Box Position.

The Covina baseball team took the measure of the youngsters that El Monte sent to town last Sunday to play a game of ball. The score, 13 to 1, tells the story of the decisive beating that was administered to the visitors. But the manner in which the boys went in to win from the very start and the snap and ginger they displayed during the whole game, gladdened the hearts of the fans, and made the most skeptical realize that a classy baseball organization can be drilled out of the material at hand.

Several changes in the lineup added a world of strength to the team work. Shirley was switched to third, and Stewart took care of the middle sack. Chase Fairly fielded in center and Montague in left. King got everything that landed in the right garden. Loughheed appeared on first base and showed the ear-marks of a ball player. He was slightly off form but will be a strong addition to the team.

In the box position Chet Fairly officiated in grand style for six innings, and had just acquired his knockout gait, when it was decided to give Coolman a chance. Libby relinquished the padded mitt to King and retired and Chet went to right. The Monte players gathered one small bingle in the very first inning; after that Chet tightened up and did not allow a scratch. Coolman, when he went in, followed similar tactics. Off Monte's youthful twirler thirteen swats were made.

Every man on the team made the most of the chance to fatten batting averages. Libby was a whizz with the stick, getting three clean hits and first on an error. Stewart's two-bagger in the eighth was a beauty.

Monte's lone run resulted from a bonehead play by Hughes, who attempted to make the third out at the plate when an easy throw to first would have done the work. As a whole the infield worked well together. Shirley handled his chances well at third and Stewart got everything around second, though he made one poor throw to first. The outfield handled all the balls that landed that far, but most of them were dinky pops that fell to the infield.

King had two opportunities to try out his pegging arm, and won applause by the skillful manner in which he out the runners off at second.

Shipping Rhubarb by the Carload.

Ventura is developing a comparatively new industry, viz., the shipping for the eastern markets of Crimson Winter rhubarb.

D.D. Bryant, president of the Phalanx Company, has now a large force of men, women and girls at work packing this excellent vegetable-fruit, and tons of it are being shipped to Philadelphia, Boston, New York and other eastern points. Great care is taken in packing. The finest stems are secured and these are wrapped in bright red wrappers, upon which are printed the directions for cooking. Three-quarters of a pound are put in each package, and a box contains 36 packages, or about 27 pounds. The boxes are made of white wood and are lined with bright red paper. From 800 to 1000 boxes make a carload and the fruit cars are iced similar to cars of oranges. The fruit is packed in three grades, choice, fancy and extra fancy. The girls receive 12 cents per box for packing.

The demand is far in excess of the supply. This fact should stimulate some of our ranchers at Irwindale, Walnut Center and other districts around Covina to reach out after this profitable industry.

Notice of Stockholders' Meeting.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Covina Valley Savings Bank will be held on Tuesday, January 12, 1909, at the office of the corporation, at 10 o'clock a.m., for the purpose of electing a board of directors for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the meeting.

COVINA

"A City Among the Orange Groves"

THE above were the words which fell from the lips of Gov. J. N. Gillett of California, when he visited recently this fair gem set in its semi-tropic surroundings. No words more fitting have been chosen in describing Covina, the chief town of the far-famed San Gabriel Valley. Every boulevard and driveway for miles in every direction is flanked with peerless groves, and the very atmosphere in the early springtime is laden with the perfume of the orange blossom and the trees laden with the golden ripe fruit. Along these firm, oiled driveways, ornamental vegetation of the common and rarer sorts grows in profusion, and withal are the lovely homes set in spacious grounds, where roses thrive in such varied richness that they appear voluptuous even amidst indescribable floral wealth. Sublimely eminent over the landscape that blesses the eye from Covina is the majestic peak of San Antonio and those of lesser altitude, but none the less beautiful, of the Sierra Madre range, with their snow crowns shining and sparkling like jewels. Covina has no rival in Los Angeles county for beauty of situation. Enhanced by the markings of civilization, its scenic loveliness, viewed in broad perspective, is hardly surpassed anywhere.

There is little danger of incurring any tourist's resentment by advising him to tarry at Covina for more than a casual glance about him. Many things he will treasure in memory are to be seen in and about the pretty burg.

BIRDS EYE VIEW OF COVINA

To the homeseeker Covina extends a standing invitation. The right hand of hospitality is all ways extended to all worthy people to cast their lots with ours and enjoy the grandeur of mountain, the perpetual gladness of vernal life, fruiting and flowering in perennial concert, an atmosphere blending the azure of mountain tops with the tincture of the sea, the conveniences of civilization, and an opportunity of securing handsome returns for their labors in the cultivation of our groves.

Covina was incorporated as a city in 1901, and at once took rank as one of the best governed cities of California, which position it holds steadfastly.

Our population is estimated at 2500.

Covina is located twenty-one miles east of Los Angeles in the upper San Gabriel Valley. It is connected with Los Angeles and other points by the Southern Pacific railroad and the new line of the Pacific Electric, which furnishes hourly service, with a running time of 35 minutes, through many miles of the finest orange groves.

The public schools of Covina are the pride of the people and the buildings are constructed after the most approved modern plan. In all respects they are up-to-date. Our high-school certificates are accepted in the leading colleges and universities, East and West. Grammar school graduates accredited in the high schools of California and all other states.

The people of Covina are, emphatically, church-goers, and each of the six different churches are well attended. The Methodist and Baptist denominations are both building new edifices to accommodate their respective congregations, which had outgrown their present church buildings.

No saloons exist in the city, and those who desire to raise families amid good social and moral environments find here an ideal community.

Covina boasts of a beautiful Carnegie library, built in 1905, which is largely patronized. An especial feature of this library is the children's reading room.

In few communities, even in Southern California, can there be found a people more universally imbued with civic pride than are the citizens of Covina. The Covina Home Telephone Company occupies its own building and furnishes a complete and efficient service. Subscribers have the use of over 800 phones, including free connections with the towns of Azusa, Glendora, San Dimas, Charter Oak, Irwindale and Puente. The Covina Gas Company, also a local institution, furnishes gas for both fuel and illumination. The San Gabriel Light and Power Company furnishes light for Covina, private homes and streets, which are well lighted by a complete system of incandescent lights. The Covina Land and Water Company, controlled by H. E. Huntington, furnishes the city with a pure water supply under excellent pressure. We have two national and two savings banks. Our stores are of high order and all leading lines of business are represented. The Vendome is a first-class country hotel.

Our clubs are of a social, literary and musical nature. The Monday afternoon Club, a ladies' literary, federated organization, owning a handsome club-house on the corner of Citrus avenue and Center street; the fortnightly, a gentleman's literary club; the Amphion, a musical organization; and the Covina Country Club, equipped with a suitable and charming building; the San Gabriel Valley Auto Club with its sixty-seven autos make frequent delightful runs over the fine roadways; and the Covina Valley Farmers' Club, devoted to horticultural and public interests. Covina has also its full quota of fraternal organizations.

Covina ranks as the leading orange district of Los Angeles county. Eleven completely equipped packing houses are required to prepare for market the thousands of carloads of oranges which are shipped from this point annually to the eastern markets. In annual shipments Covina ranks first in Los Angeles county and third in the world. The raising of lemons is also a leading industry. Besides our citrus products, delicious fruits and berries of every kind are grown in abundance. Agricultural products and grains grown on land south-east of the city also form a leading source of income.

COVINA, January 9, 1909.

CALIFORNIA'S NEW-OLD INDUSTRY.

Eucalyptus forestry is not new to Southern California; yet as a commercial proposition it is in its infancy. For sixty years different varieties of eucalypti have been grown in the state, although its use for anything but fuel is comparatively unknown here. When some of the great trees in Santa Clara county were first cut for lumber and manufacturing purposes the experiment was regarded with pronounced suspicion by experienced lumber men. The result of the experiment was profitable beyond all expectation.

The character of the wood was more carefully investigated and tested. The railroads saw the opportunity in it for them and both the Santa Fe and the Southern Pacific roads are now planting thousands of acres for their future supply of ties and pilings. Francis Hosp, who worked out Smiley Heights in Redlands, and who began the parks in Pomona, is now engaged by the Santa Fe in superintending the planting and cultivation of its great acreage of eucalyptus. One of the assistant state foresters has recently resigned his position to take similar work.

The territory adapted to the cultivation of this tree is limited to the low-land sections of California and Arizona. The tree demands a moderate climate and a soil which has deep underground irrigation. Those who have investigated the subject declare that the Imperial valley can never produce eucalyptus trees suitable for making up into finishing lumber, owing to the fact that all the irrigation of that valley is surface work and that the drainage into the rivers will prevent deep rooting of the trees. It matters little how deep beneath the surface the moisture is, if only there is sufficient moisture to keep the tree living until the roots can go down to the constant supply of water. It is thought that the trees will root as deeply as two hundred feet if water is to be found at that depth.

Where the trees are grown in sufficient quantity to justify putting up mills and factories the trees which now are used for fuel will be found to be worth many times as much as now. The wood of some varieties of eucalyptus is fully as valuable as black walnut and mahogany for finishing lumber; some varieties last long under ground and are especially valuable for ties and posts; others are the best possible substitutes for hickory, ash and oak, for wagon parts and similar uses.

The commercial value of the eucalyptus trees in this section is yet to be determined. When Col. Chapman was cutting down his splendid row of trees on Cicero avenue, an expert in eucalyptus who happened to pass by remarked that that row of trees was worth far more for permanent results than any six rows of trees in the grove adjoining. This may have been true had there been a mill and factory available for converting the wood into some finished factory product.

With the widespread interest in the industry it is almost certain that the coming years will see the experiments of the past turned into profitable usage, and much of otherwise unimproved land be turned into profitable investment. Before this is done on any large scale, however, there must be a sufficient acreage planted to warrant putting in mills for handling the lumber grown.

If any of our readers have had experience with the industry even on a small scale, if only the accounts of expense and profit are reasonably accurate, we would be glad to publish the reports. It has been stated that eucalyptus is more profitable, when grown commercially, than oranges. If this can be shown it will open up a new field for investment. Thousands of acres of eucalyptus are to be planted in the next few years. We can well afford to study the subject at this time. If you know anything about it please write and send your report to the editor.

Do not forget that Dr. Clark, osteopath who has succeeded to Dr. Goodell's practice, occupies the same offices in the First National Bank building. tt

From the middle western states comes the report of many deaths and much suffering from the cold wave which has swept from Winnipeg to the gulf. At Regina, the capital of the northwest territories, 59 below was registered. Chicago and St. Paul report the coldest snap registered for years. The prediction of the weather prophets that the cold is to be long continued has caused crowds of tourists to recognize that there is but one California and many are heading this way.

The time has not yet arrived when the "sword shall be turned into a plowshare and the spear into a pruning hook," but surely the sight of the battleships of all nations, those terrible engines of death and destruction, transferred into Ministering Angels of Love, rushing under full power of their ponderous machinery to rescue the perishing and bring aid to the injured, a glorious example of human sympathy with human suffering, presages the coming of that time when human love for human beings shall override all commercial considerations and the epoch of universal peace shall be established.

THE BROADWELL STORE

Dependable Footwear.

Shoe clerks are not chiropodists and are not competent to prescribe instep supports. If your feet need attention go to a man who makes it a business. Instep supports cost 75c and retail for $3.00. The store gets 70c and the clerk $1.50 for selling them. It's come to a point in Los Angeles where clerks try to sell instep supports to people for their dogs. We will furnish $3.00 instep supports for 85c. Very few people need them.

We will sell you honest and reliable footwear from the best manufacturers in this country at prices 20 per cent less than our city friends, nor will we try to sell you instep supports, corn salve and a dozen other things you don't need. We have had years of experience in the shoe business and our word and judgment ought to stand with an $18.00-a-week shoe clerk, whose only recommendation is the store's Broadway location and plate front.

We carry as many shoes as stores who make a great deal more show and know more about our business.

Women's Sample Shoes $2.00

All sizes. Shoes advertised as samples are not really sample shoes but are job lots. We can sell you a good shoe for $2.00, but not every style.

Many of these shoes are worth $2.50 and $3.00 per pair. We do not make the outrageous claim of their value made by some stores. We can sell you women's patent leather oxfords at 85c per pair that look like $2.50 shoes.

We have boys' tan shoes and oxfords at less than the leather cost.

We offer children's calf shoes, 8½ to 11, at $1.00 pair, and they are good shoes too.

We offer a few pairs Utz & Dunn's Acme cushion sole shoes, plain toe, $4.00 grade, size 4½ to 6, at $3.00 per pair. Not damaged or shopworn; new goods.

Women's Shoes $3.50 and $4.00

A customer of ours who was paying us $4.00 for the Acme shoe which wore her eight months took it into her head to buy a pair of $4.00 shoes for $3.50 at a big department store's removal sale. They wore her 2½ months or $1.00 per month. Ours cost her 50c per month. Another customer quit us for a pair of $3.00 department store shoes which we noticed in the shoe shop for a half sale in eight days. By the way, they will pull off another big fire sale soon, as they have a factory for the manufacture of fire sale goods up on Hill street. It's running night and day.

Did you ever stop to think that if goods were priced right in the first place there would be very few reductions?

This handsome new shoe, made from Ofister & Vogel's newest velvet calf. For people who appreciate good shoes. Best oak soles.

During the years we have engaged in business in this city we have tried every possible and impossible method of merchandising, bargain sales, special sales, cheap goods and good goods.

We found bargain sales unsatisfactory as some misrepresentation is nearly always necessary. Special sales create hard feelings as customers do not like changing prices. Cheap merchandise never gives satisfaction, and in the country our customers hold us strictly accountable for quality.

We want business. We can buy cheap goods as cheap as anyone and sell them cheaper, but we find more people return because an article was good than because it was cheap. No two stores sell every article the same. We will in future confine ourselves to well-known brands, goods whose established reputation is above suspicion. We will sell them as close as we can and live and pay our help decent wages.

There is no such thing as something for nothing. If there was, you would be robbing your neighbor if you took it. If Providence has given you your share of this world's goods, live and let live—and that means to stand by your town, your state, your country, and do the square thing by your neighbors.

TROWEL'S TRIP AROUND GLOBE

Masonic Emblem Visits Covina Lodge in its Wanderings.

The visit of the travelling Masonic trowel to Covina Lodge, F. & A. M., on Tuesday evening was made a notable event in Masonic history of the Upper San Gabriel valley.

The trowel, which is now in the custody of Southern California Lodge No. 278, F. & A. M., was conveyed to Covina by its custodian, Edward Byron Spencer, Senior Warden of Southern California Lodge, with an escort composed of Bro. D. R. Well-er of Southern California Lodge; Bro. Robt. Musket of Southern California Lodge; Bro. C. H. Bridges, of Sunset Lodge, No. 352; Bro. B. N. Powers of Hollenbeck Lodge, and D. M. Sutherland of Sunset Lodge.

The trowel was presented to the Worshipful Master of Covina Lodge by Bro. Spencer in the prescribed simple, but impressive, ritualistic form and afterwards passed to each member present for his inspection, during which time the entire membership stood in the form of a living trowel.

Following the presentation ceremonies interesting and appropriate addresses were delivered by the custodian of the trowel, Bro. E. B. Spencer and several members of his escort, giving a history of the trowel's journeyings, an account of which appears below.

Fully 100 members of the local lodge and visiting brethren were present.

The ceremonies of the evening were closed by a banquet of which all partook.

The idea of the travelling trowel, symbolic of the admonition to "spread the cement of brotherly love" on every possible occasion throughout the world was started upon its mission by Justice Lodge No. 753 of New York under the sanction of the Grand Lodge of New York.

To Mr. C. Fred Crosby of Justice Lodge belongs the credit of proposing to his lodge the plan of sending out a silver trowel among the Masonic Lodges throughout the world, spreading fraternal teachings and bringing them together in a closer bond of acquaintance. After obtaining the approval of the Grand Lodge of New York, a magnificent solid silver trowel was manufactured, bearing upon its face the symbolic figure of Justice, together with the name of the lodge, the date and the phrase, "Who best can work and best agree."

This beautiful silver trowel was solemnly consecrated and dedicated on October 30, 1905, by the Grand Lodge of New York at one of the most notable Masonic gatherings ever convened in the United States. More than a thousand Master Masons, including some of the most distinguished members of the craft, participated in this ceremony. To accompany the trowel on its long journey, Justice Lodge prepared an elaborate record book bound in blue Morocco, upon which was embossed the Masonic square and compasses and the name of the lodge in gold. Besides the blank forms in which are to be entered the history of the journey, there are many pages of beautiful engraving and portraits of the members of the silver trowel committee of Justice Lodge, of which C. Fred Crosby is chairman, and portraits of the Grand Master and other officers of the Grand Lodge in New York.

Under the conditions devised by Justice Lodge, each lodge to which the trowel is presented agrees within thirty days it will formally present it to some other lodge. The selection of the lodge to which it will next be presented is invariably left to the decision of the lodge in whose custody the trowel may temporarily be.

It was arranged that after leaving the state of New York, the trowel should sojourn with only one lodge in any Grand Jurisdiction.

It is intended that the trowel shall eventually, after the lapse of many years, be returned to Justice Lodge, which will present it, together with the accompanying book of records, and scrap book history of the journey which is being compiled, to the Grand Lodge of New York to be deposited in the archives.

A simple but impressive ritualistic form was devised by the committee of Justice Lodge for use in the presentation of the trowel.

A delegation from Justice Lodge bore the trowel to Rochester, New York, on December 6, 1905, and formally presented it to Geneva Falls Lodge, the largest Masonic Lodge in the world, with a membership of nearly 1400.

later, conveyed the trowel to Hornellsville, New York, and presented it to Hornellsville Lodge.

From Hornellsville the trowel was carried to Buffalo, and on the evening of Washington's birthday, February 22, 1906, presented to Washington Lodge. This was a most notable occasion, as in addition to the ceremony incident to the reception of the trowel, Right Worshipful Sylvanus J. Quinn of the Grand Lodge of Virginia was present, bearing with him the bible upon which George Washington took his obligation as a Master Mason in Fredericksburg Lodge on November 4, 1752, together with a record of Fredericksburg Lodge in which the initiating, passing and raising was recorded.

Washington Lodge of Buffalo bore the trowel across the Canadian border to Hamilton, Ontario, March 23, 1906. This great international Masonic event was honored by the presence of many of the most distinguished craftsmen in Canada.

There was another international event a month later, when the Barton Lodge brought the trowel back to the United States and formally deposited it with Detroit Lodge No. 2 of Detroit, Michigan. The journey to Detroit was made in a special train. The Barton Lodge was accompanied by the Kilties band and delegations from twenty-five Canadian lodges who marched the streets of Detroit under escort of the local lodge whose guests they were.

Detroit Lodge sent a delegation of nearly three hundred brethren to Toledo, Ohio, a few weeks later, and presented the trowel to Toledo Lodge, at what was probably the most notable Masonic gathering ever assembled in Toledo.

From the Ohio city the trowel was borne to Elkhart, Indiana, where Toledo Lodge presented it to Kane Lodge. The brethren of Kane Lodge brought the trowel to Chicago, and presented it to Mystic Star Lodge, the ceremony taking place at Englewood Masonic Temple in the presence of nearly a thousand members of the craft.

A large delegation from Mystic Star Lodge, Chicago, bore the trowel to Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and presented it to Crescent Lodge on St. John's Day, 1906.

Crescent Lodge presented the famous trowel to Minnehaha Lodge, Sioux Falls, South Dakota, February 5, 1907, the event being one of unusual interest.

When Capitol Lodge of Omaha learned that this noted emblem of the fraternity was destined for Sioux Falls, efforts were at once directed to have Capitol Lodge honored by its presence. These efforts were crowned with success and a large delegation of Masons conveyed the mystic emblem from Sioux Falls to Omaha, Nebraska.

From Capitol Lodge the trowel was carried to Oriental Lodge of Denver, Colorado. After the customary thirty days, Oriental Lodge presented the trowel to the Cheyenne Lodge and Acadia Lodge of Cheyenne, Wyoming, sitting in joint communication, on June 11, 1907.

From Cheyenne the emblem was taken to Wasatch Lodge at Salt Lake City on August, 1907, at a notable gathering.

Portneuf Lodge of Pocatello, Idaho, was honored by being the next custodian of the expressive emblem of brotherly love and affection, for the jurisdiction of the State of Idaho, and on October 16, 1907, the trowel was formally presented by Wasatch Lodge of Salt Lake City.

Willamette Lodge of Portland received the trowel on the evening of April 20, 1908. Its stations were filled by the Masters of the other Portland lodges. The Grand Master and the other officers of the Grand Lodge of Oregon were present.

On June 16, 1908, whilst the Grand Lodge of the State of Washington was being convened in Tacoma, the trowel was presented to Lebanon Lodge of that city by the officers of Willamette Lodge of Portland, where it had been resting since April 20.

On August 7, 1908, the trowel again crossed the Canadian line, where it was received by Vancouver and Quadra Lodge of Victoria, B. C., and where it rested until September 18 of last year, when it was conveyed to Oakland, California, and presented to Oakland Lodge No. 188 on September 22, 1908, which presented it to the Grand Lodge of California, October 14, 1908.

Oakland Lodge No. 188 conveyed the trowel to the southland and presented it to Southern California Lodge at Los Angeles on the night of December 16, 1908, being the evening of the installation of officers. Most Worshipful Grand Master Lawler and several other officers of the Grand Lodge were present. This was probably the largest and most interesting gathering of Masons ever held in Southern California.

Its object is three-fold, bible study, Christian culture and the development of a spirit of interest and cooperation in all kinds of church work.

HOW TO TRADE AND WHERE TO TRADE.

We call the attention of our readers this week to the large display advertisement of Harris Bros., 269 W. Second street, Pomona, announcing a reduction of one-third off the regular price on a sale of Men's Clothing.

We always have and still advocate the principle of dealing with the merchants of your own town, for only by this means can we ever hope for Covina to become the commercial center which its location, combined with its natural resources warrant. The Argus, however, does not hesitate to say that after you have thoroughly inspected the excellent stocks carried by the local merchants, and your tastes are such that you should fail to find what you want in the line of stylish suits, the place to go is to Harris Bros., of Pomona, a recognized leading house in this line. The reputation they have established is a sufficient guarantee that this is a genuine sacrifice sale, and it will pay you to read their advertisement carefully.

Announcement.
The Glendora Women's Club desires to announce that it has secured the noted Baumgardt lectures for four evenings in Glendora. The first will be given in the Glendora Opera House, Friday evening, January 29th. The subject will be "Norway, the Land of the Midnight Sun." The lectures will be illustrated with most excellent stereopticon views in colors. Mr. Baumgardt is a fascinating speaker and education and entertainment characterize an evening with this delightful traveler. The valley is fortunate in having such notable lecture-entertainment. Tickets on sale at Chapp's Drug Store. Single tickets, 35c; season tickets, $1.
